Dear Health Care Professional:

We need the help of qualified health and related professionals to supplement our current hospital capacity temporarily as our hospitals are challenged by a surge of seriously ill coronavirus patients. I am asking you to sign up to support your fellow New Yorkers during this crisis.

While extensive clinician resources are required to care for critical patients, there is also a need for health care professionals to fill other roles in caring for less acute patients and providing support services.

If you are available, please complete the survey linked below regarding your experience and your qualifications, including:

Your specific qualifications and expertise

- Date of last certification and license
- Date of last practice
- Role in last practice
- Contact information including location
- Current age
- Willingness to work in other parts of New York State?
- Your interest and ability to provide services to treat patients if the need should arise

Please immediately respond by using this link: www.health.ny.gov/assistance
If you have any questions, please contact workforce@exec.ny.gov

Your immediate attention is appreciated.

With your help, New York State is working to protect our residents and strengthen our public health system. We appreciate your commitment to helping in this crisis and your commitment to the health and safety of all New Yorkers.

Governor Andrew M. Cuomo
